HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS RAISE FUNDS FOR KGH PERINATAL UNIT

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – They'll duck, they'll dodge, and they'll take one for the team – high school students from Central Okanagan Public Schools are ready for the final showdown of the District Dodgeball Tournament. Organized by the District Student Council, the tournament raises money for the Kelowna General Hospital (KGH) Foundation's Giving Giggles campaign, which supports new, state of the art equipment for the KGH Perinatal Unit.

"We're proud of the District Student Council all the students who organize and participate in this tournament," said Kevin Kaardal, Superintendent of Schools and CEO. "They're leading by example, showing us all what it means to be a contributor, and having fun while they're at it."

The tournament finals take place at the Kelowna Secondary School gym on Thursday, May 4, from 6-7pm. It costs just three dollars at the door to support the cause.
